

A close-up photograph of the fore-edge of a book. The binding material, likely leather or a similar dark material, is visible along the bottom edge. The pages are light-colored and show signs of age and wear, with some discoloration and small dark spots. The book is resting on a dark surface.

