

This image shows the fore-edge of a book, oriented vertically. The pages are a light cream or off-white color, showing signs of age with some slight discoloration and a few small dark spots. The binding is visible along the right edge, appearing as a dark, textured strip. The overall appearance is that of an old, well-preserved volume.

