

A long, narrow, vertical strip of aged, yellowed paper or parchment, heavily stained and discolored, likely a book cover or endpaper. The material shows significant signs of wear, including dark brown and black spots, streaks, and a mottled texture. The edges are slightly irregular and frayed. The overall color is a mix of light tan and dark brown, suggesting a long history and exposure to environmental factors.

