

[The page contains dense, handwritten text in a historical script, likely Castilian or Spanish, from the 15th or 16th century. The text is arranged in approximately 30 horizontal lines. The parchment is aged, with visible staining, foxing, and significant damage along the right edge, where the text is partially torn and illegible. The ink is dark, and the handwriting is cursive and compact.]

