New schools on Mars are perfect for our children not to get distracted during classes.

Numoerous families have been sending their children to the new private schools on Mars, their grades seem to go up in less than a month. Of course theres nothing but an infinite black void to look at through the class windows. When they are surrounded by red sand the kids reasonably preffer to listen to what their teachers have to say. "We could be entering a the golden era of education" says Eric Stone, founder of M.I.G.C , MARS Institute for Gifted Ghildren.
